

PETER TELLS THE TRUTH ABOUT JESUS

[Near the city of Caesarea Philippi] — Everywhere Jesus went, people talked about him. The more amazing things he did, the more questions people had. Some people wondered how Jesus got all the power he was using to help people. Other people wondered how Jesus got so much wisdom, so that he could teach the way he did.

People started trying to figure out who Jesus really was. Some of them thought he might be a famous prophet from the old days, come back to life again. Other people were not sure. All the Jews knew that some day God was going to send a great hero to rescue the people from their trouble. But that great hero was supposed to look big and powerful. Jesus looked kind and gentle. They didn't think Jesus was the hero they were waiting for.

One day Jesus asked his own disciples who they thought he was. Peter did not wait for a minute before answering. He said, "Jesus you are the Messiah." Peter told the truth. Jesus really was the hero God had promised.

ANSWERS

Gus The Gospel Gopher says: "In today's Gospel story, something exciting happened. Peter told Jesus he knew Jesus was the Messiah. Jesus told Peter that he was right. But Peter probably thought Jesus would try to make himself into a king. Here is a picture for you to finish. It will show you something Peter might have thought Jesus would wear because he was the Messiah."
